

The Councillor Development Charter and Charter Plus

Supporting continuing professional development
for councillors

Foreword

Serving as a councillor is a responsibility, a privilege and a hugely rewarding undertaking. At its best, local government provides the strong and ambitious leadership that ensures the nation remains fit and well, economically resilient and continues to thrive.

More than ever before, councillors' role as political, civic and community leaders requires us to offer visible, responsive and resilient leadership as we advocate on behalf of our residents and help shape places in which people want to live, work and play.

Our regular polling shows that local councils and councillors are the most trusted to take decisions about their local areas. Democracy and decision-making are strengthened when councillors are empowered to speak to, and for, our communities and to support the effective business of local government. If we are to continue to meet the expectations of those we serve, in an ever-changing world, we need to make sure we have the skills and expertise to carry out our duties.

The Councillor Development Charter and Charter Plus provides councils with a robust framework, but flexible to local needs, to ensure effective leadership, equip their members with the support they need, and provide resilience in times of challenge. The council I lead, Central Bedfordshire Council, is accredited to the Councillor Development Charter and currently working towards Charter Plus. So I know from first hand experience the benefits of this guidance in helping councils build an even more effective and positive approach to ensuring all councillors are developed and supported to be effective in their roles.

These Charters have been developed as part of the LGA's coordinated approach to sector-led improvement across local government. This aims to help councils continue their own improvement journey, take up our support tools and offers and contribute to the improvement of local government as a whole.

The framework has been updated based on what councils have told us would help their members be empowered to work effectively, and be responsive and resilient – including in more challenging times – while being mindful of the importance of promoting positive personal wellbeing through everything we do. The Charter is flexible, with a strong emphasis on local approach, and aims to help councils consider their existing practices, celebrate what is working, and share good practice.

I know local government is committed to investing in councillors' growth and development, and I would strongly encourage all local areas to adopt the Councillor Development Charter and Charter Plus as a guide and benchmark as part of your improvement journey. Continued professional development is an important tool for effective democracy and good governance, and I hope councils' action will help to inspire the next generation of councillors and political leaders to stand for election and make a difference to their communities.

Values and purpose

Learning and development is an important tool for councils, councillors and officers to deliver what our communities need. Inspiring local communities and ensuring the wellbeing of the people and places we represent takes ambitious leadership – and effective political leadership is at the heart of healthy democracy; with councillors who are well equipped and supported, resilient in times of challenge or disruption to business as usual, and confident to make a difference, deliver and be trusted.

The Charter and Charter Plus helps councils to support councillor development and recognises those that have built an effective approach.

This document will take you through:

- benefits of achieving the charter and charter plus
- resource commitments involved
- details of each element and the requirements to achieve the charter
- the types of evidence you could use.

The framework in this document gives concise and clear guidance on how to achieve the charter without being too onerous or overly bureaucratic.

The charter is flexible and focuses positively and supportively on what councils already have in place.

There is a strong emphasis on a local approach to a national framework. Rather than dictating a council's strategy, content or delivery mechanisms, the emphasis is on ensuring that all councillors are appropriately developed and supported to be effective in their roles.

The Charter and Charter Plus is also based on the principles of sector-led improvement, whereby councils:

- are responsible for their own performance
- are accountable locally, not nationally
- have a sense of collective responsibility for the performance of the sector as a whole
- can access support and tools from the LGA and regional organisations.

Benefits

The following benefits have been reported by councils through the regional local government organisations which assess and award the Charter.

Benefits: processes and strategies

- Concise and clear guidance on how to achieve the charter without being too onerous or overly bureaucratic.
- Flexible and focuses positively and supportively on what councils already have in place – a local approach to a national framework.
- Helps councils decide what to prioritise and improve.
- Councillor development needs are better understood and supported.
- Demonstrates the value placed on councillors carrying out their important and complex role.
- Helps set aside time to reflect and celebrate the good practice already happening.

Benefits: impact on councillors

- The quality of councillor development is improved.
- New councillors are better prepared for their roles and responsibilities.
- Councillor progression is better enabled.
- Helps ensure councillors can operate at their most knowledgeable, skilled and effective.
- Increases councillors' competence and confidence.
- Helps councillors navigate the ever more complex and demanding role and local government landscape.
- Self-care and reflection for councillors through development and growth.

Benefits: impact on all partners

- Strengthens member-officer relationships.
- Helps ensure effective top team political and managerial leadership.
- Encourages robust and accountable decision making.
- Helps ensure proactive succession planning.
- Helps improve councillor diversity.
- Enhances democracy and participation.

- Strengthens relationships with residents and partners.
- Improves outcomes for communities.
- Fosters a culture of learning and support within the council and with partners.

Additional benefits of Charter Plus accreditation

- Highest level of commitment and a holistic approach means the benefits filter more widely.
- Case studies highlight successes and encourage more councillors to participate.
- Evaluation ensures high quality learning and development is delivered to councillors.
- Learning and development for councillors supports the council's objectives.
- Councillors have a clear understanding of their roles and responsibilities.
- Successful and impactful Personal Development Plans (PDPs) for councillors.
- Deeper intel of the impact of learning and development.
- Helps prioritise, horizon-scan and deliver the 'next level' of member development.
- Strengthened place-based focus by sharing development opportunities and promoting the role of the councillor to other organisations in the local area.
- Effective succession planning and candidate recruitment activities.
- Evaluation draws out the impacts on the community through feedback from local partners.

Resource commitment

- The accreditation process differs across the regions to account for local variations.
- The framework gives concise and clear guidance on how to achieve the charter without being too onerous or overly bureaucratic.
- A flexible approach that focuses positively and supportively on what councils already have in place – a local approach to a national framework.
- Examples of evidence are clearly detailed in the framework.
- Many councils are already doing this work – the charter is a chance for this to be recognised.

Guidelines and evidence

There are three essential criteria to achieving the charter:

There is a clear commitment to councillor development and support.

The council has a strategic approach to councillor development.

Learning and development is effective in building councillors' skills and knowledge.

Within each of these there are a number of elements and requirements to demonstrate that the criteria are being met.

These do not dictate what should be in the strategy, the nature of the content or the delivery mechanisms that should be used. The emphasis is on ensuring that all councillors are appropriately developed and supported so that they can be effective in their roles

The following lists are intended to indicate the sorts of evidence that can be used to show that the council's approach to member development meets the charter criteria. Note that:

- there is no need to show all the evidence listed
- this does not preclude the use of other evidence that may not be listed. The emphasis is on a local approach to a national framework
- some are likely to be stronger indicators than others
- some pieces of evidence may be applicable to more than one element and criteria

As described over the next pages, evidence is wide-ranging and could include anything that demonstrates meeting the requirements, for example:

- meeting notes
- feedback from councillors and officers
- strategy and policy documents
- details of development events
